Dear

[Redacted]

The enclosed booklets are excerpts of the pages that we will be issuing for our A-12-2-2 Maintenance Manuals in order to define the method of storage for temporary or extended use.

We are still considering following the procedures outlined on the preliminary storage arrangement at the South Base that I gave to you at our last meeting. The enclosed instructions and man hours are based on using the South hangars in about the general arrangement shown there.

With regard to Aircraft 134, the only action contemplated for it in the near future, is to move it out of the hangar that it is presently occupying in order to free it for another project. Its storage is also shown on the charts that I gave you previously. I will bring these outlines up-to-date in agreement with the latest note on the minutes of the meeting that we received from Gen. Bacalus and will send you copies shortly.

Best regards,
